

Urim TUSKU

THE U.S. POLITICS IN KOSOVA

U.S. started to criticize Milosevic for his stand against the Albanian population of Kosovo, and therefore, at the conclusion of the presidential mandate of George Bush (Senior), the American Secretary of State made this warning for Christmas in a direct message that he sent to Milosevic to stay away from violence against the Kosova population. This was the first warning that Americans made to Milosevic. As soon as Bill Clinton became president a special interest for the Balkans and for Kosovo was launched.

U.S. was indicated as peace-makers al over the world and it was going to do the same in the Balkans. They had carried out such a mission even before in Bosnia, when such a conflict existed. Kosova people on their turn made a heroic resistance to Serb repression and founded the KLA in 1998. U.S. intervenes by sending NATO troops, this was achieved thanks to the Allied Forces Agreement and U.S., thus putting an end the conflict in June of 1999 and putting Kosovo under international administration.