

Viron Kona

KNOCKING ON THE DOORS OF KNOWLEDGE

This article treats the great role of teachers in the education of students in schools, as well as the promotion of ideas, desires, passions and dreams of students for life, development, science, culture, art, etc. Students want, seek for themselves, try to find forms, debate and present ideas, ambitions, thoughts on how they feel and understand life. They want not only to throw on paper and publish pieces of prose or their poetic verses, but they also want to try, compete, show that they too can become journalists, uncover the news, provide information, debate and to throw ideas and alternatives on the table, to prove themselves "how much they are worth" as poets, writers, painters and sculptors, as historians and geographers, to deepen their knowledge in chemistry, biology, physics, etc. The article cites as an example an almanac with creations of students of a united high school in the village of Shala in Elbasan and shows how their teacher knew how to promote and organize the desire and poetic thoughts and creations in prose of students. The teacher had collected those together with them, as beautiful and fresh flowers are collected from the garden in a bouquet and had taken care that they were published in a special book, appreciating the achievements of the students, but also taking care of their talent to develop more and more.